BRITAIN ENABLED NOW TO DEAL WITH IRISH BOMBERS

Measure is Enacted Into Law
In Record-Breaking
Time

HITS TERRORISTS

Government May Expel Suspected Terrorists at Moment's Notice

LONDON, July 28.—In record time, a new government measure enabling British authorities to deal with Irish Republic Army bombers, was enacted into law today.

The bill enables the government to expel suspected terrorists at a moment's notice and to close the gates of entry to all persons liable to become a menace to the British security. Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire denounced the recent series of bombings and disclaimed all official sponsorship of the outlawed army.

Immediately after passage of the bill, police waited until the legislation became law, then closed down upon known IRA centers. Between 200 and 300 known or suspected IRA members or sympathizers will be rounded up before night.

Christopher J. Bucher, Sr., Dies Suddenly Yesterday

Although in ill health for a lengthy period of time, death occurred suddenly yesterday at five p. m. for Christopher J. Bucher, Sr., at his home, 119 Jefferson avenue. Mr. Bucher was in his 77th year.

Born in Philadelphia, the son of the late Christian and Marie Koch Bucher, Mr. Bucher came to Bristol in 1882. For 38 years he was employed as a wool sorter by the William H. Grundy Company, retiring 20 years ago.

ITALY TRAINS ALL OF ITS PILOTS FOR AIR CORPS

Pilots Soon Graduate To Pursuit or Attack Planes and Then To Bombers

ALL PILOTS RESERVISTS

(Note: This is the final article of a series on the Italian Air Force.)

By Merrill Mueller

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ROME, July 28.—(INS)—The Italian Air Corps training program represents "sportsman" flying in Italy and forms the backbone of the commercial air lines of the country.

There is a bare minimum of tourist, or sports, flying in Italy. There is no real commercial flying. Both spheres of the game find their roots in the air corps training pilots.

Only a small number of private airplane models, one a light weight tri-motor of unusual ability worthy of mention, are manufactured in Italy for tourist or sports flying. Flying costs within the country are well beyond the means of the Italian pocket-book. But commercial flying in the sense of airline operation is undergoing rapid development. Since the government owns the airlines, there is no commercial business.

All pilots are trained for air corps service, all are reservists. A large majority have seen actual service in the Ethiopian and Spanish Wars. The air corps training is done on the Brenda 25, an elementary trainer biplane of light-horsepower, the Nardi 205, an excellent advanced monoplane trainer.

Initial pursuit training is done in a Brenda 28, an unusual biplane which teaches the handling of trickier airplanes. From this ship, pilots graduate to pursuit or attack planes, and from the attack squadrons to the heavy bombers. Ground training is as thorough as that of other air corps.

These airplanes, when in the hands of reservists flying for fun or to fill their reserve service hours, represent "sport" flying. A few imported private planes, and a few manufactured in this country, are found at the bigger airfields. They represent the sum-total of private flying; the possibility of renting an airplane for an hour or two of aerial enjoyment is unheard of.

The older of these pilots and the more experienced are promoted to service on Avio Linee or Ala Littoria, the two Italian air lines which stretch over all Europe and Africa. With the handicap of bad airframes, both lines do remarkable service. Ala Littoria employs the Savoia Marchetti SS3, a 24-passenger 2,650 horsepower tri-motor transport developed from the Savoia bomber. Avio Linee uses Fiat G 18V sixteen passenger transport developed from the Douglas DC 2 which the line still operates. The Flats are faster and heavier with two Fiat 1,000 horsepower motors.

The lines operate without radio

POLICE CALL FOR HELP

LAWRENCE, Mass.—(INS)—For once local police officials admitted they were "stumped" and called for assistance. The reason—a swarm of bees had settled on Duck Bridge, completely blocking the bridge to traffic. Police were called by mill workers who were afraid to approach the bridge. HISTORICAL MUSEUM ADDS 3 IRON HITCHING POSTS

Curator Mann Says They Were Bought Because "They Will Soon Be Things of Past"

OBTAIN OLD HOTEL SIGN

The Bucks County Historical Society Museum at Doylestown has added to its collection three iron hitching posts. "Because they are rapidly disappearing," Curator Horace M. Mann stated, "was the reason we purchased them."

"We recently purchased from a Quakertown dealer three hitching posts, the first to be added to the museum's collection, because they will soon be a thing of the past and hard to get," said Curator Mann.

All of the hitching posts are of a swan and stump of a tree type, but Curator Mann expressed regret that the most common type, that of a horse's head, with a ring in its mouth, is as yet not among the collection. "I do not seem to be able to find a post with a horse's head," he said.

"The Black Horse Hotel sign, made in 1782, was recently purchased from a Raubsville dealer. The sign at one time was used at a hotel in the upper end of the county, but Dr. B. Frank Fackenthal, president of the Bucks County Historical Society and whose home is in Riegelsville, is not certain of the location of the original Black Horse Hotel," explained Curator Mann.

A Thanksgiving stove plate, which has a different design than any of the others in the now famous collection, was recently purchased from a Raubsville dealer. The sign, which is the front plate of a certain type of stove, bears the German Biblical phrase, "Dancket dem Herrn den," which, translated means "Give Thanks Unto the Lord."

Five watchmen's rattles which were used instead of a policeman's whistle, have been added to the collection. One

RAIN ALLEVIATES THE DROUGHT CONDITION

Farmers Pleased at Rain-Fall;
Tomato Crops Benefitted
In Particular

IS TEMPORARY RELIEF

Farmers are rejoicing over the rain which yesterday alleviated in this area a serious drought condition.

Although not as continued a rainfall as needed and desired growers of crops, however, express delight over the relief afforded by a half-hour of intense, steady rain, followed by two hours or more of a lighter rain.

"It was not a heavy soaking rain that will last," said a representative of King Farms Company, Morrisville, this morning, "but it gave fine relief for a few days. Of course it put no reserve moisture in the soil."

The growers in this area who specialize in tomatoes, are highly pleased, for it was the type of rain, it is said, which will greatly benefit the tomato crop. One large cannery for which scores in this section grow tomatoes, is ready to accept the crop on the first of August. Due to the drought the tomatoes were not in the best of condition, but it is believed yesterday's rain will aid nicely.

All crops were given temporary relief, and many farmers are of the opinion that if additional showers arrive during the next two or three days the dryness will be further alleviated.

At King Farms they are able to cover 400 acres by means of portable irrigation, but there are 2200 additional acres not irrigated. "The rain of yesterday was a great help to all our crops," said a representative today. "The moisture didn't reach ploughed depth, but it went down four or five inches. We needed it particularly for our unirrigated portion."

Labor Relations

Washington, July 27. WHILE it is true that the C. I. O.-White House weight was strong enough to block in committee all amendments to the Wagner Labor Act, nevertheless the adoption by the House of the resolution to investigate the National Labor Relations Board, which implements the act, was a direct "slap in the face" for both. It was so described by their friends on the floor during the debate.

—O—
ACTUALLY, it was more than that—it was a striking manifestation of dissatisfaction with the law itself and the way in which it has been administered. Both the White House leaders and the Labor Committee were swept aside by a 254-to-134 vote. The House overwhelmingly dominated by Democrats, set up a special committee of five to probe into a board and report on an act which the President pointedly wanted let alone—and the C. I. O. insisted should be let alone.

—O—
MODIFICATION of the law and a truing up of the board were among the things which at the beginning of the session it was accepted would be done. Prompt action was expected, but for many weeks the hearings were postponed with the entirely unsound excuse that the A. F. of L. being in favor of changes and the C. I. O. opposed, it was useless to discuss them while the peace negotiations between the two labor factions, initiated by Mr. Roosevelt, were in progress.

—O—
SAGGING from the start, these negotiations long ago ceased altogether. Still, the amendments, Continued on Page Two

Report on Abrogation of Treaty

Tokyo, July 28.—A formal report on American abrogation of the 1911 treaty was presented today by Foreign Minister Arita to the Japanese cabinet.

Arita outlined the possible reprisals which the United States can put into effect unless there is a rapid amelioration in Japanese-American relations between now and six months hence, when the treaty becomes inoperative.

It was stated in authoritative sources that the full import of the step taken by Washington has not yet been completely realized. It was anticipated it will be several days yet before Japan will recover fully from the shock of realized relations between the two nations have been placed now on a basis of merely technical cordiality to formulate a reply to America.

Japanese officials unanimously contended they were "puzzled" by Hull's abrogation move, and stated that Washington's "true motives were not clear."

They flatly asserted, however, that if the United States wishes to negotiate any new accordance with Tokyo, Washington must take into account the "new state of affairs" in the Far East.

TELLS ROTARIANS OF HIS TRAVELS ABOUT COUNTRY

Richard Fechtenburg Speaker

Service Club

SOME GUESTS PRESENT

Bristol Rotarians were entertained by a very interesting address by a fellow-member, Richard Fechtenburg, at the regular weekly meeting in the Elks Home yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Fechtenburg gave a talk on some of his travels throughout the country in past years.

Given in the form of a travelogue, the speaker told of many incidents and events on his journeys.

The meeting was in charge of Thomas R. Jones, president. Club singing was led by Ernest Gamble, assisted by Samuel Shires at the piano.

Besides a good attendance of Bristol members, a delegation of Morrisville Rotarians were guests at the meeting. An announcement was made that the meeting last week will be held at Stamford K. Runyan's lawn on Radcliffe street, at which time the District Governor, Samuel Bennett, will pay his annual formal visit to the club. President Jones urged a 100% attendance for this meeting.

EXCHANGE CLUB HEARS OF MONTANA MEETING

Messrs. Lefferts and Fry Report On Reception of Greeting From Local Club

GUESTS ARE PRESENT

Formal report of contact with the Exchange Club of Butte, Montana, was given to the Bristol Exchange Club last evening, at the Turngemeinde Country Club by Messrs. Francis Lefferts and Wayne Fry, who served as personal messengers to the far-Western service club, during a trip to that area.

The two young men, who were guests of the Butte club, presenting in person the greeting printed on Paterson parchment paper, and encased in a Robin & Haas plexi-glass tube, both Bristol products, gave an excellent account of their welcome and of their trip in general. The message borne by the two to Butte was a reply to the invitation from Butte Club to Bristol Exchangeites to participate in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the state of Montana, which invitation was engraved on copper, copper being one of the foremost industries of the state. The copper sheet likewise contained a picture of the mine buildings, and during their stay Messrs. Lefferts and Fry were privileged to go into the mine, to a depth of 2800 feet, said workings forming the largest copper mine in the world.

Mr. Lefferts' mother, Mrs. William J. Lefferts, had journeyed to Butte at an earlier date, and she joined the two young men for a trip later through Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming.

The following is the greeting from Bristol Exchange Club to the club in Butte:

"Exchange Club,
Butte, Montana.
"Dear fellow Exchangeites:
"Greetings!"

"Our club greatly enjoyed your invitation printed on Cu. It is a novel idea. It is not only a product of your chief industry, but of the originality of your club."

"It started us scratching our heads. What could we say to such an invitation? Some of us wanted to accept. Then someone looked at a map and found that Butte is half-way round the world. We decided we couldn't afford the trip."

"But we also concluded we should reply in kind. You may never have heard of Bristol, but it is the home of some unique industries. This paper is vegetable parchment, made by the Paterson Parchment Paper Company of Bristol. Your wives probably cook vegetables in it; if not, they ought to. The case is made of Plexiglass, from the Rohm and Haas Company. It is a synthetic, glass-like resin. It won't break . . . or almost won't."

"We could have mailed this greeting, of course, since Bristol has a post office. But we decided it should be entrusted only to personal messengers. We have used three of them; in case one or two should fall by the wayside, it should still reach you."

"And we could have typed this greeting, since one of our members has a typewriter. But another member is also a printer. He loves to do a job for which he isn't paid. Hence he has printed this."

"Our members could do a lot for you. We could bring you into the world, teach you, marry you, bank your money without interest, assess your taxes, try you for horse thieving, bury you, sell you meat, malted milk, lumber, seed, pansies; analyze your ore for As2O3, build you a house, make a rug for your floor or yarn for Continued on Page Two

The Tale of A Dog

(By "The Stroller")

The strong light of the mid-Summer sun doesn't in the least affect the eyes of the pet dog owned by the Glazer children of Mill street. For when "Old Sol" puts on his strongest act the dog has sun glasses placed on his nose; and to shade his little head there is a fine straw hat. In this costume he strolls up and down the business thoroughfare, the center of attraction.

Occasionally the dog is given a treat in the form of a bicycle ride, placing his fore-paws on the handle bars; and his rear feet on the reinforcement bar.

Suffers Serious Injury In Crash of Automobiles

Suffering a severed artery over the left eye and loss of considerable blood, Warren Brelsford, 37, of Yardley, was in Mercer Hospital, Trenton, today following a rear-end collision of his automobile Wednesday night with another car in Morrisville.

According to Morrisville police, Brelsford left the scene of the accident after his car crashed into the rear of a machine operated by Russell Scott, also of Yardley. The Scott car was stopped waiting for a traffic light to change at North Pennsylvania and West Trenton avenues, police reported, when Brelsford's machine ran into the rear. Scott escaped injury.

Brelsford was driven to the New Jersey side of the Yardley bridge by his wife after he returned home, bleeding profusely. There Mrs. Brelsford summoned aid from Trenton and Ewing Police, who meanwhile had been informed by Morrisville police to check on a "hit and run" driver. At the hospital Brelsford was found to have lost "at least" a quart of blood. Six stitches were required to close the wound over his eye and the severed artery. Brelsford also sustained a superficial scalp abrasion from the impact of the crash, which threw him against the front of his car.

His condition today was reported as "fair."

FRIDAY, JULY 28, 1939

AT LONG LAST

It has taken Congress a long, long time—altogether too long—to get around to the point where it is willing to respond to the demand for action which may bring about a re-making of the National Labor Relations Board. Now it is to be hoped that the House investigators will really go to the bottom of the matter. If they do, the result ought to be such recasting of the Wagner labor act as will assure to both labor and to industry a fairness of administration that has heretofore been lacking in the operations of this board.

The National Labor Relations Board, in theory at least, was expected to promote peace in industrial-labor relations. In fact, it has been an oppressive agency of government. The American Federation of Labor holds that it has functioned as a representative of the CIO. Industry contends that in the matter of so-called unfair labor practices, the board has never been able to see unfairness except as it construes industry as the offender. Labor might take its complaints to the board, industry could not. Because of its attitude, rivalries between the contending forces of labor have been fomented and industry has been ground between the stones of contention.

Four points are to be particularly considered by the House investigators. These have relation to the fairness of the board; the effect of the Wagner act upon employer-employee relations and upon economic conditions; whether the board has attempted to write into the act purposes not justified by its language; and to suggest amendments and determine whether Congress should further define interstate commerce.

Unquestionably, as the sponsor of the resolution of enquiry declared, "there is something wrong which needs looking into." If the members of the House labor committee feel that this enquiry will make worthless what the labor committee has already done in its investigations, they should realize that procrastination has produced impatience with delay.

POPPYCOCK

As to President Roosevelt's statement that the Senate's refusal to act on the neutrality law this session has "killed off a nice little business boom," we agree with Senator Hiram Johnson.

Johnson said "That's poppycock," and with all respect for the Presidential thought processes, that's exactly the word for it.

As to the progress of business recovery and what ails it, the public is beginning to have more definite ideas. If there is a nice little business boom in the offing, its demise, if any, will be laid generally to other causes than the neutrality law.

Cupid among the underwriters: "June marriages, which always create new prospects for life insurance, were well up to the expectations of the trade this year."

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin has it that "ex-Governor Dickinson is going to reform the nation." Is that recall movement sweeping the East?

Now and then the reputation of a humorist can survive republication of his stuff after death, but it's taking a fearful chance.

Horseshoe Pitching Contest At Willow Grove Park

Sunday, leading horseshoe pitchers of the Atlantic Seaboard, including many State title-holders, will gather in Willow Grove Park's Amphitheatre to compete in the Sixth Annual Eastern 'Pennsylvania Open Horseshoe Pitching Tournament.

Eighteen-year-old Bill Hamann, of White Plains, N. Y., present title-holder, will defend his crown against such strong contenders as 17-year-old Larry Mahoney, New Jersey State Champion, who recent set a new record for consecutive ringers in winning the Hudson County Open Mahoney's astonishing aptitude for ringer-tossing makes him a "triple-threat" contender for the World's Champion tilt to be held in San Francisco's Golden Gate Exposition next month. In addition to entries of Hamann and Mahoney, entries for the Willow Grove Park tourney have been received from John Fulton, of Carlisle, Pa., former eastern Pennsylvania champ; Vito Feleccia, ex-New York champ; Robert Frye, of Richmond, Va., who holds the title for Virginia State and the District of Columbia; Ruth Allen, of Elmhurst, L. I., best woman tosser in the East; and many others of like calibre. From Denver, Col., comes National Champion Ted Allen, to give real competition to the pitchers and to exhibit his amazing ability to make horseshoes do everything but talk. (Incidentally, Larry Mahoney is one of the very few to hold a victory over Allen. Twenty-seven-year-old Ted Allen recently starred in a movie short of trick horseshoe pitching, and now with a traveling rodeo, can toss a shoe 40 feet to make a ringer and flick the ashes from a man's cigar in passing. With three shoes tossed in rapid succession at three blanket-hidden stakes, Allen can make three amazingly accurate ringers. Sunday's title tilt in Willow Grove Park will begin at 11 a. m., with a trick pitching demonstration staged at 12:30 p. m.

beams but with excellent wireless directional equipment, including a new model direction finder, and American Sperry blind instruments manufactured in Italy under license. The wireless equipment was developed at the experimental base of Guidonia, truly an aeronautical town for it was expressly built for the complement of 700 men and their families. Beside the airbase are row after row of designing and experimental laboratories, wind-tunnels, and other aerodynamic features. Here Italy's airplanes and equipment for them, are designed and developed. On the field and in the wind-tunnels the developments are tested before being put into production.

At present, Guidonia is concerned with the new Savoia long range bomber or transport. With three 1,000-hp. motors, and better than 2,000 pounds of bombs, as well as complete fighting equipment, it is credited with a range of 2,000 miles. It carries a crew of six and will be one of the most formidable bombers in Europe when put into production. It corresponds to, but does not equal the American Boeing Flying Fortress.

This new Savoia is a composite development of the present Savoia bomber and the Cant Z506 Seaplane bomber, the crack plane of the naval air squadrons which have little outstanding equipment. The Brenda 28 and the RO 43 are merely copies of the land planes mounted on single pontoons with wing-tip floats. The Cant-Z506 is a tri-motored bomber powered with Alfa Romeo engines of 750 H. P. each with a top speed of 240 miles per hour. The Cant-Z506 light bomber is the Italian effort to produce an airplane in the category with the Consolidated Flying Boats of the American Navy which it strongly resembles in lines but not in performance.

The Plexiglass container was a tube with a cap on each end. At the meeting last night, Messrs. Fry and Lefferts gave an interesting account of their reception by the Butte club, the many friendly courtesies shown them, their trip through the largest copper mine in the world, their dinner with the smallest Rotary club in the world at Three Forks, Montana, with seven members; and their subsequent trip through Yellowstone Park. The North Philadelphia Club was the guest of the Bristol group. Clarence Laudenslager, of that club, gave an account of the plans for the national convention of Exchange in Atlantic City, N. J., in September.

The rattles, which resemble New Year's or Callithumpians' horns in sound, are of different wooden makes with handles. Another addition to the museum are two books, which explain the collections in the museum. They include a "Children's Toys of Yesterday," a book which contains illustrations and colored plates of toys of the eighteenth century, beginning at 1730, up to modern times.

The other volume, "The Children's Books of Yesterday," contains a collection of poems, mottoes and children's verses which illustrate the tendency of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries of children's books.

Every effort to pry them out of the committee was frustrated by the combination. When these facts are considered, the sudden action of the House in passing its investigating resolution is significant.

cant from the political as well as the economic point of view.

IT is another and clear-cut demonstration that not only a majority of Congress but a majority of the Democrats in Congress are not controlled by their titular leader. The White House wish is no longer their law. In this instance, though they clearly knew what Mr. Roosevelt did not want done, they went ahead and did it—did it, too, in spite of the militant and threatening attitude of the C. I. O. These demonstrations, it will be conceded, do not strengthen the "draft Roosevelt" third-term movement. Enactment of the Hatch bill, taking the Federal jobholders out of politics; passage by the Senate of the Logan-Walter bill, curbing the power of the various Federal boards and commissions, and now the NLRB resolution—all three of these things were distasteful to the White House; all three put it on the defensive and one, at least, vastly diminishes its potency in the party primaries.

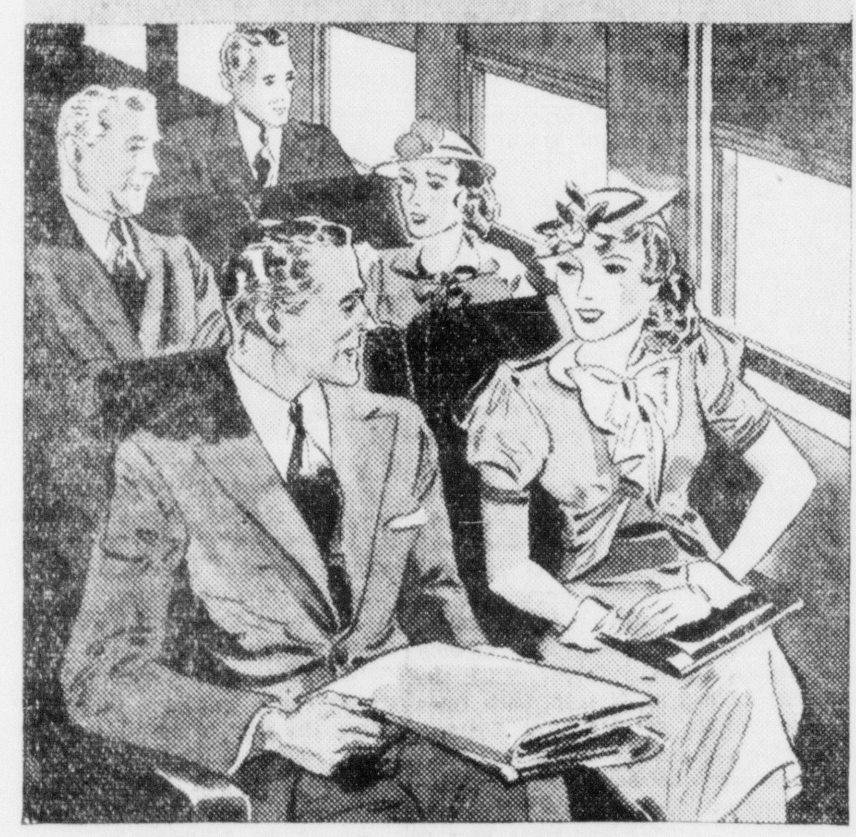

IT is not easy to believe that the popular branch of Congress, completely dominated by the President's own party, capable of doing this kind of thing to him, is indicative of a public sentiment that would justify an effort to break the oldest and most deeply cherished of American political traditions. Only the most optimistic and lopsided amateur could so argue. However, wholly aside from the political phase, it is fortunate that the NLRB resolution is sufficiently broad to enable the special committee to go to the very root of the relations between industry and labor.

IT IS true the committee is specifically instructed to ascertain whether the Labor Board has been "fair and impartial" and whether by regulation or interpretation it has written into the act purposes not justified by its language. In addition, however, it is directed and empowered to investigate and study the effect of the Wagner Act upon "increasing or decreasing disputes between employer and employee, upon increasing or decreasing employment and upon the general economic condition of the country."

THUS the investigation of the next five months is comprehensive enough to make possible a report next January from this committee which will cover the whole subject of labor-employer relations. It ought to result in legislation next session that will be a big improvement over the existing statute. The opportunity to do a big job is there.

TULLYTOWN SCORED SEVEN STRAIGHT WINS

TULLYTOWN, July 28.—Tullytown stretched its string of consecutive victories to seven games when it defeated Voltz 10-4, in a Suburban league tussle here Tuesday night. Giving Pinky Bachofer, his ace hurler, a rest, manager Leigh inserted catcher Henny Clay in the pitcher's box and although he allowed eight safeties, he kept them scattered well enough to come through unscathed.

Voltz got off to a one-run lead in their half of the first, when Fanini singled, stole second and scored on Moore's double. Moore was caught on base. Tazik grounded out pitcher to first and Sak struck out to retire the side. Tullytown retaliated in their half by tallying three times to take a two-run lead. Mike Pollock fanned. Vic Roberts hit safely to left and Franny Clay reached first on J. Fanini's error. Henny Clay then hit a long single scoring Roberts and sending Franny to third. Kayniak fanned but Bill Leigh rapped out a hit scoring both the Clay boys. Tom Burton then flied out to end the inning.

Voltz scored once in the second on hits by Fanini and John Sak, but Tullytown went without a tally. The Harriman boys went down A-B-C in the third, as did the home team. In the fourth Voltz repeated their performance of the last inning but not Tullytown. Frank Lucisano and Johnny Pollock both hit safely. Mike Pollock reached first on an error, Roberts struck out but Franny Clay singled, scoring Pollock and Lucisano. Mike Pollock then scored on Henny Clay's single. This was enough for pitcher Schweitzer. He voluntarily removed himself from the mound and John Sak came in, but only to suffer. He walked Kayniak to load the sacks, and immediately followed with another free pass to Leigh forcing in F. Clay, leaving the bases filled with one out. Tom Burton came up and rapped a sharp single over second sending in H. Clay and Kayniak. Lucisano up for the second time this inning walked and J. Pollock sacrificed Bill Leigh home, and Mike Pollock fanned to end the inning—7 runs, 8 hits and one left on base.

Voltz scored twice in the fifth on three hits by Moore Tazik and Sak, but went down in order in the last inning while Tullytown retired in order in the last inning. Final statistics: Tullytown, 10 runs, 11 hits, 2 errors; Voltz, 4 runs, 8 hits, 2 errors.

Tullytown holds a half game lead over Edgely for first place in the league.

LANDRETH IX BOOKED TO PLAY TWO GAMES HERE

Landreth's baseball team will play at home both Saturday and Sunday. Tomorrow at 6 p. m. Raphael, of the Philadelphia Baseball League, will be the attraction. Raphael at the present time is deadlocked with Mayfair for first place in the league and, therefore, is playing a fine brand of ball, so the "Farmers" will have to step some Saturday evening if they want to add to their string of victories. Last year these teams met twice and each club gained a victory.

Dingler will probably pitch for Raphael with Long behind the bat.

Sunday at 3 p. m. at Landreth Ball Park the "Farmers" will be in competition with the Palmyra Colored Giants. These clubs have never met before and it should be a good game, for just recently the Giants beat R. D. Wood and the Camden Giants, one of the best clubs in the New Jersey City.

Manager Landreth is undecided just who will pitch on Saturday and Sunday. It depends largely on how the "Farmers" make out tonight at Florence when they meet R. D. Wood. Should they win tonight they will have fourteen straight victories.

The class of ball Landreth is playing is undoubtedly the best brand in this section, so there should be good crowds out not only Sunday afternoon but Saturday evening as well.

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight (Maple Beach field)
Team	Won	Lost	Score	Runs
Diamond	14	8	700
Odd Fellows	11	11	509
Hall Aluminum	10	10	500
Rohn & Haas	9	10	474
Grundy's	7	14	333

Tonight on the Maple Beach diamond, the Grundy team will play the Rohn and Haas nine. This is the only Bristol Twilight League tilt scheduled for tonight. Last night's game was called off because of rain.

If victorious tonight, the Rohn and Haas team will move into a triple deadlock with the Odd Fellows and Hall Aluminum for second place. Grundy's must win tonight or it will be destined for the cellar position with no hopes of getting out.

It appears certain that the Diamond team will cop the championship. At the present writing the boys from Andalusia need but one win to make the crown certain and the worst it can get now is a tie. Diamond won both of its scheduled contests this week.

Wednesday night, the winning streak of the Hall team was shattered after the boys of Ernie Nellis had run up a string of nine straight triumphs which brought them out of the cellar into second place. The loss dropped the airplane workers into a deadlock for second.

Game tonight begins at 6:30 o'clock sharp.
